Sry i have to give a dislike for the bad gameplay control.Later game in some levels when u try to creat some mid air blocks u have to creat others block to build up and then delete it...that is very inconvenient when u trying to fix the puzzle....later game when u have more blocks but u try to fix some in the mid ground its even harder because the 45 drgee fix view will block the middle so u have to delete all the blocks around the center view...thats very annoying
. This game is about making a 3D isometric that combine the projection of the shape in 2 dimensions, this reminds me about another game on smartphones, Isometric, When passing the eye on this game, I knew that I would like to play this, this game have multiple puzzle, It make you see the projection of the object in 2 dimension, give you a new way to look onto the world.. Place cubes to fill out two projected images at the same time.

This wont offer much of a challenge if you are looking for even a remotely difficult puzzler, but its a very polished, novel, and relaxing game to go through. There are 80 levels and each of them can be completed, completed in Picross mode (Except for the first four), completed with max cubes, and completed with minimum cubes.

All in all its about 3 or 4 hours of gameplay. You might want to wait for a sale considering the short length, but I generally prefer quality over too much padding regardless and I think itd probably get old if there were too many more levels.

I only hope that there is a way that this can be expanded on in future with new mechanics or somehow increasing the board size. Until then, this is definitely worth a look.
